

Weather Forecasting "The Planetary Transits and Your Design Oct / Nov 2001 "Four Corners Magazine"

Have you ever wondered why you reacted to a situation in a particular way, with no clear explanation why? Quite possibly it was the movement of the planets through the universe, or what we call transits. Each day on earth, our entire world is affected by the planetary transits, influencing our behavior and view of who we are. When we have a sense of our own design, we can be acutely aware of the outside forces influencing our behavior. This is an activation of gates through the planets and is something that we can feel physically within our bodies.

It may amplify our emotions creating more desire, passion and even anger. Knowing the mechanics of the transits and its impact on our designs gives us the opportunity to respond with awareness to the program

The key to looking at the planetary transits is to first know your own chart. Over half of the population is a split definition. This is where you have at least two colored in areas that do not connect within your chart. We are always looking for bridges to connect these two parts. This is something that can be brought by a transit and if it is a slow moving planet, we can have this conditioning factor for a very long time, sometimes even years. Think back in your life were there times when you were able to accomplish a lot only to have it disappear suddenly and wonder why? If you are a non-energy type and a transit brings you the definition of a manifestor you will be very busy and energetic during this period with the risk of thinking something is wrong when it disappears. On the other hand, when you see that there is a period coming up that will give you extra energy you can plan accordingly. Living your design through your strategy, authority and type is the essential preparation for moving gracefully within these conditioning forces.

Is it Transit Love?

In my practice, I have many clients that come for relationship consultation. Each time they begin a new relationship I am asked to review both charts and give an evaluation of the composite dynamics. There are times when I can see no obvious connection between the two so I check the transits and this is where the attraction reveals itself. With the awareness of when a particular transit will end and how it is influencing their attraction to the other is a great opportunity for them to observe and see if anything changes after that date. If so the advantage is that no one is to blame for the change, it is not personal it really was just transit love.

Emotional Transits, Storms a'Brewing

For those of us that are undefined or open emotionally (no color in that center) it can be quite a ride to meet an emotional transit. Emotions are responsible for passion, desire, sex and anger. There is one definition in design through the 59th and 6th gates called the channel of intimacy a design focused on reproduction. Now think about it if you don't normally have this and all of a sudden, it defines the whole planet for a week, you know 9 months later we may be looking at a very high birth rate. Most of those people won't really know what driving forces they have just tangled with or is it tango?

At the same time, it is not easy to have emotional definition for any length of time when you are undefined emotionally. These people often feel they are falling apart and go out seeking professional help or some form of medication when a simple explanation could help them to know it is not personal, again it is just a transit. With this knowledge, you will still feel the emotions but a great peace can be felt within knowing this too shall pass and it is not you!

Transits and Your Health

Many health decisions can be made based on the transits as well. Choosing when to begin a fast or cleansing would be beneficial when you have definition or transits to the spleen, which represents the immune system of the body. If you have high cholesterol and an undefined heart center you may want to be cautious when there is a transit to the heart. The risk is that you will have an added amount of energy to the heart and if you take action and think it is your energy, the consequences could be detrimental to your heart. Best days for surgical procedures can also be chosen based on the type of surgery required.

Using the "Rave Ephemeris".

The Rave Ephemeris is a special guide for all of the planetary positions through the Human Design System. It is beneficial to check the ephemeris daily and see how the program is affecting you. The Sun and Earth stay in the same gates for six days with each day representing one of the 6 profiling lines. This allows us to choose which days to take action and which days to be introspective or when to just plain, stay home. The Moon moves much faster staying in a gate approximately 11 hours at a time, defining each of the 64 gates every 28 days of the lunar cycle. Short term, activities can be taken advantage of such as public speaking, business meetings or even stock trading. I have even advised musicians of the best or most advantageous transits for performing or recording their music, giving them more consistency and energy to the throat as an example.

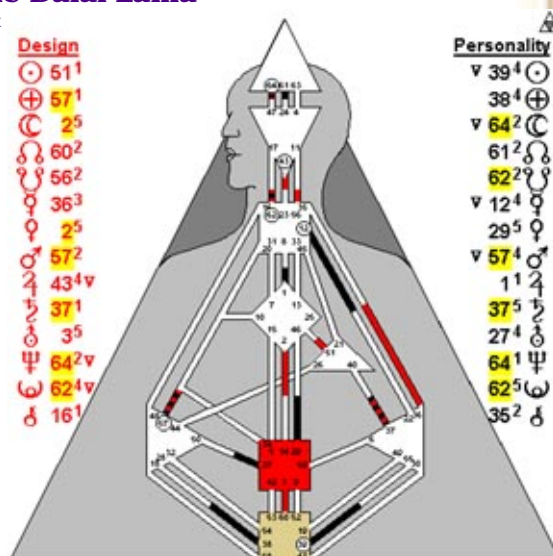

Each planet has a theme and a quality that you can learn to recognize over time. The Nodes of the Moon set a tempo like the seasons. They can be very disruptive and are usually in gates for approximately 3 months just long enough for us to get used to them and then they go away. There is no limit to the use and application of the ephemeris. Knowledge of self is the first step.

Transits and the Dalai Lama

An example of a transit on November 13 and how it changes the chart of the Dalai Lama.

As you can see, he only has two centers filled in.

Combining the transit chart with his there are now six centers filled in. This is a deeply intense time for him with emotional definition through the gate of crisis and change. He goes from being a generator to a manifesting generator, with access to the throat bringing more energy. The channel of struggle is defined creating the potential for struggling to know the value of his actions. This is also a time for him to establish new rules of caring for the tribe and new values. His fear may be the responsibility in all of that.

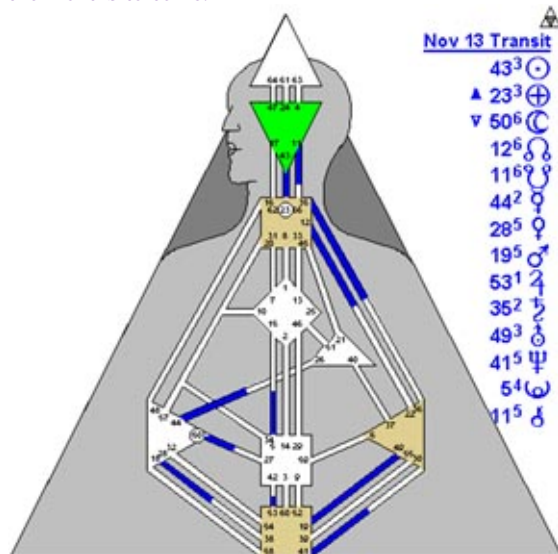

Mentally he will have more ideas for this period with the 11th gate connecting to his 56th gate. The ideas will bring stimulus and change and the need to make sense out of his experiences possibly through storytelling. It is a time where he will have access to the throat to finally have the opportunity to share his insights through his unique knowing. He will still need to act out of his authority and strategy, which is waiting and responding, then his actions will be correct and received.

November 13, 2001 transit

From the root to the solar plexus he has the definition of sensitivity to accept or reject the principles that he can live by it is also the channel that begins many revolutions in fact the whole planet will have this definition from Nov. 7th until the 14th. It is also one of the 3 mystical channels and can be ritualistically spiritual in a new way. Watch for something new to come from the Dalai Lama in the months to come.
